AIM OF THE CONFERENCE

The issues associated with security science in a broad sense recently have become not only one of the basic problems that are present in many areas of public life but also an extremely important field of scientific research significantly extending a substantive scope of this concept. What is also crucial, issues of security and the theory of security for several years have remained extremely popular direction at the higher education level.

In connection with the growing importance of security issues in the modern political, economic and social reality the University of Public and Individual Security APEIRON in Cracow is inviting you to a scientific conference dedicated to subdisciplines and auxiliary sciences in security sciences. The conference is an attempt to answer the question: Is it possible and necessary to extract subdisciplines and auxiliary sciences in security sciences?

In the course of deliberation we would like to address the following issues:

Proposed

- subdisciplines of security sciences,
- auxiliary sciences in security sciences,
- dimensions of security sciences,
- taxonomy (subdisciplines) of areas of research of security issues from the perspective of different countries
